I am very much obliged to "Eden Bridge," who sends me the following recipe and enables me to assist "Chiswick," who, as my readers may remember, asked last month if could tell her how to set about curing bullock's liver for making gravies in the way it was done in Cumberland, where "Chiswick" had seen the cured liver hanging on hooks in the kitchen along with the bacon. My correspondent says the liver must be first hung up to drain; after that, salt it well and leave it for twenty-four hours in a dish. Then hang it up to drain again, and when it has ceased dripping hang it in a dry place for use. It is excellent for gray for cutlets and all made dishes. esign his post as co metropolitan police, it is satisfactory to learn, at all events, that his excellent arrangements for the control of street processions were not the cause. Nevertheless, it is a matter for deep regret that the public and the force should be deprived of his valuable services in an office for which he was peculiarly fitted. It may not be Mr. Matthews' fault that since he took over the Home Office two commissioners of exceptional ability have felt compelled by self-respect to resign. tropolita felt compelled by self-respect to resign. On the face of it, this would seem to indicate, it is true, that the HOME SECRE-TARY carries matters with rather too high hand at Scotland Yard. Sir CHARLES WARREN may have been, perhaps, too self-willed for any superior to get on with Trained, as he had been, in the Army, and med to exercise independent com mand, a certain degree of imperiousness the Strand is urgently needs was to be expected. But all acquainted with Mr. Moneo's career will acquit him Commons rendered valuable of autocratic proclivities. He assumed—quite rightly, we consider—that it was his

ORD DUNRAVEN ON SWEATING.

It is quite certain that the mind of Parliament and of the public cannot be kept too steadily fixed upon the gigantic crils of that terrible social condition which is generally known as the sweating system. One may, therefore, be grateful to Lord DUNBAYEN for the mere fact of his having brought forward a motion on that subject in the House of Lords on Monday. Lord Durnaven is dissatisfied with the report of the select committee on the sweating DUPLAYER is dissatisfied with the report of the select committee on the sweating system which was published last month. He thinks that the report fails to recognise the true causes of the evil, and he desires, as his motion expressed it, that Parliament should proceed to make laws for the diminution of the evil. People, as a role are too much given to helding very for the diminution of the evil. People, as a rule, are too much given to holding very strongly one of two opposite doctrines. Either they think, with Lord DUBRAVEN, that direct legislation should be the principal reforming agent for the abolition of the evils of sweating; or, on the other hand, they adopt Lord DERAY's view that legislation is practically powerless to assist the victims, and that other remedies of a less direct character must be applied. For our own part, we decline to subscribe unreservedly to either of those two propositions. No THE CONTANTS EXTRACT OF REEP.

"BETTERMENT.

The County Council will have to devise some new means for effecting the pro-posed improvements in the Strand. This is, in one sense, unfortunate, because in sted state of the traffic (which, bad as it now is, will certainly become worse in future), the widening of the Strand is urgently needed. A Conference was held at the Animals Institute, Kinnerton-street, Wilton-place, or Wednesday to consider the best and most humane method of using the bit for horses. Professor Atkinson stated that the institute offered their silver medal for an essay on this subject. Thirty-five essays had been sent in, but the name of the winner would not be made known until the close of the season.
